

JCC Open House

4th March 2017 - One week after the Thanksgiving Service, the church was again filled with people, for the Open House. This time it was the neighbours who came to check out the church, which popped up in their neighbourhood.

Mr Tharman Shanmugaratnam attended the occasion and even planted a tree, right next to the front entrance. He took a tour of the building and also took some photos on his handphone. We met him a few weeks later at the air-con coffeeshop and he mentioned that he took a photo of the old wooden cross which Mr George made.

Some of our guests also took videos of our 3 live bands, the Chinese, English and Dialect singing teams. I wonder if they posted these videos on social media?

By the way things ran like clockwork, we might be tempted to think there was not much effort put in. To be sure, the committee under chairman, William Tan, had planned for this event since the beginning of this year and all the people (tour guides, singers, gate keepers, teachers, first aiders, stall holders, etc) helped to make this a successful event.

Open House – Photos by Cecilia, Nick and Martin

